PREFACE

This booklet has been prepared by the Carrollton Business and Professional Women's Club to commemorate Carrollton's Sesquicentennial. Obviously, we could not hope to compile a complete history of Carrollton in a matter of 30 days and as many pages, and so have designed an ALBUM OF TODAY AND YESTERDAY, using pictures and articles available to us.

On our cover you see the monument erected in honor of our founder, Thomas Carlin, who was born near Frankfort, Kentucky, in 1786. In 1803, the family moved to Missouri, which was then Spanish territory. His father died there and Thomas came to Illinois and served as a Ranger in the War of 1812. Following the war he operated a ferry for four years opposite the mouth of the Missouri River, where he was married. In 1818, he located on land which now forms a part of the City of Carrollton.

In 1821, Greene County was created by an act of the legislature in session at Vandalia and Mr. Carlin, Thomas Rattan, John Allen, John Green and John Huitt, Sr. were appointed commissioners to locate the county seat. After a short meeting at the home of Isaac Pruitt, the commissioners mounted their horses and rode east to a promising location on land owned by Mr. Carlin. History has it that the group halted at a point later identified as being on the east side of the present public square in Carrollton and that John Allen paced about 50 yards to the west, drove a stake, and announced: "Here let the Courthouse be built." The town was named Carrollton after Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Maryland, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. This was on February 20th, 1821.

At the first election in April, 1821, Mr. Carlin was elected sheriff. In 1824, he was chosen as state senator and served four terms. During the Black Hawk War he commanded a spy battallion. He was chosen Governor in 1838 and served four years. He died at his home in Carrollton, February 11, 1852.

The dedication of the monument to Thomas Carlin, located in the Southeast corner of the Courthouse park and erected by the State of Illinois in honor of his being its 6th Governor, took place on July 4, 1917. The program at the unveiling was as follows:

Music, Band.
Invocation, Rev. C. S. Boyd.
Song, Duncan Sisters' Quartet
Unveiling of Statue, Mrs. Ada Schafer-Smith.
Address - "The Monument," Victor S. Holms.

HERITAGE

Once upon a time, the story goes,
This land was new, the soil untried.
On these acres, vast, untamed,
Men and women toiled on side by side.

Farmhouses were slowly built,
And bits of land fenced in;
And women cooked and passed the food
To the weary toiling men.

Livestock was made captive,
The sod was turned, the soil made
free,
And winters came with snow and cold,
And toil went on unceasingly.

And from these years of endless
toil,
There blossomed forth in history's
page
The dreams of sturdy pioneers—
The story of our heritage.

COURT HOUSE

OFFICERS OF THE COURT

The first Court House in the County was built in 1821-2 on the west side of the square, the contract being let to William and Thomas Finley at a special meeting of the commissioners held June 13, 1821, though the building was not completed until a year later. One historian says the contract price was $350 and another that it cost $700. It was a long, frame structure standing with its side to the street. Years afterward it was cut in two, turned around and used for store rooms.

The need of a more commodious and dignified temple of justice began to be felt as early as 1825, but nothing came of it until in March, 1830, Moses Stevens was instructed to draft a plan and at a special meeting in April, the contract was let to Thomas Rattan for the erection of a brick Court House in the center of the square. The contract price was $7000 to be paid in yearly installments of $1000 or more; or, in case a special tax was levied that year, Mr. Rattan was to accept $5,500, when collected, in full payment of his bill. The building was completed early in 1832. It is a matter of history that, when finished, the new edifice "was the pride of the county, and was universally admitted at that time to be the finest Court House in the State." The building was 44 x 46 feet, two stories, surmounted by a pretentious tower (taken down some years before the building itself was razed).

This was replaced by the present Court House in 1891.

COURTHOUSE CLOCK DEDICATION JULY 8, 1968

(Carrollton Gazette-Patriot, June 27, 1968)

The repairing and electrifying of the clock on top of the Greene County Courthouse, which has been silent so many years, is now nearing completion, and the clock will soon be in operation again.

Robert Hindelang, Carrollton Township Supervisor, told the Gazette-Patriot Tuesday morning that plans were partially completed Monday at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors to hold a formal dedication ceremony for the clock, the tentative date being July 8.

We understand that the work on the clock carries a five year guarantee. The contractors for the repair and maintenance are Kenneth B. and George B. Kavanaugh of St. Louis.

During preliminary testing of the Courthouse Clock Wednesday afternoon, June 26, several townspeople remarked how wonderful it was to again hear the "old clock" toll-out its familiar and distinctive chime of yesteryear (all but forgotten by many -- and never heard by the younger set).

Without seeming to be too sentimental, the striking of the clock brings back something good and worthwhile out of the past, and it also returns something of definite value that is as much a part of the Greene County Courthouse as the foundation itself.

We commend the Greene County Board of Supervisors for their foresight in restoring the historic landmark to its original place of dignity and service to the residents of Greene County.

JUDGE CLEMENT L. SMITH

Clement L. Smith was born in Bluffdale Township, Greene County, Illinois, on March 7, 1895. He attended rural schools and then the Carrollton Public Schools and was graduated in 1914 from the Carrollton High School. He served in the Army during World War I. On April 12, 1928 he was admitted to the Bar, and practiced law from the first of August, 1928 until December of 1942, at which time he took office as County Judge of Greene County, Illinois. He served as Acting County Judge of Macoupin County during the absence of the Judge of that Court, while said Judge was in the military service of the United States. In June of 1945 Judge Smith was elected as the Circuit Judge of the Seventh Judicial Circuit which comprises Greene, Jersey, Scott, Macoupin, Morgan and Sangamon Counties. In September of 1946 he was assigned by the Supreme Court as a Justice of the Appellate Court for the, then, Fourth District at Mt. Vernon, Illinois. He was re-elected as a Circuit Judge in '51, '57, and 1964. He has always resided in Greene County, with the exception of a period of three years in Morgan County when he was located there as a teacher and high school principal.

Judge Smith was married to the former Hilda Coats, of Hillview, Illinois in 1925. They are the parents of two children, Mrs. Doris Purdue, and Clem Smith, Jr.

CARROLLTON 1823 - 1968

CARROLLTON - 1823

A brief but graphic picture of Carrollton in its early infancy can be found in the book "Wagons West," which tells of the westward hegira of the Justus and John Rider families, who started in September, 1822, from New York State and reached Carrollton late in April 1823. The women and children rode in a coach, followed by the wagons loaded with the household goods and a stock of goods for a store to be established here. The description follows:

THE RIDER FAMILY ARRIVES

"The coach lurched to a standstill at last. As the tired women with their fretful babies in their arms looked through the windows, their eyes rested on a sight that was now familiar. Perhaps the central open space of the little town was a trifle more generous than some they had seen, for Carrollton had been laid out as the county seat. On the west side stood the frame courthouse, unattractive, two-storied, presenting a high, gaunt end to the front, and already looking dingy and weatherbeaten, a fit companion to the log jail which flanked it. Diagonally across on the north side was the other frame structure in the place, a two-storied with a portico. In the middle of the grass enclosure, between the square's four roads, were the public well and the whipping post. For the rest, there was the usual fringe of low log buildings. There was nothing to distinguish this from hundreds of other raw little towns they had been through - nothing until John rode up level with the coach window to ask them what they thought of their newhome. They looked out then, all eager curiosity, realizing with a flood of relief that their long journey was over."

FIRE TRUCK

News of Yesterday

April 28, 1888. Carrollton had a test of their NEW FIRE ENGINE. The name of it is "Little Giant." It is simple, light, durable and will throw a 3/4" stream 100 feet high, weighs less than 500 pounds and can be pulled by very few men.

Notice the modern 750-gallon pumper in above picture, one of the trucks belonging to Carrollton Fire District.

LIBRARY POSTOFFICE

The Bowman building, two story brick, stood in the corner of our present library yard, facing east. The location of part of the foundation may still be traced in 1965. This well-known building was destroyed in a spectacular fire in 1887. The flames leaped to buildings across the street, and a little south, and burned to the end of the street on the south.

THE BOWMAN BUILDING

The Carrollton Public Library was first promoted by the University Extension Club organized during the winter of 1900-01 by Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Rainey, which met in Mr. Rainey's law office. When Andrew Carnegie announced his intention to give many thousands of dollars to establish public libraries, the club corresponded with the steel philanthropist and circulated petitions to stimulate local interest. In April, 1901, enthusiastic public meetings were held, the library was made an issue in the city election, candidates for the city council were pledged to vote for the two-mill library tax which carried in the city election by an overwhelming majority. The new city council adopted a resolution for establishing and maintaining a free public library, and Mayor G. W. Ross appointed as the first library board: H. T. Rainey, S. E. Pierson, F. P. Williams, E. A. Doolittle, C. A. Weimer, Geo. W. Davis, B. C. Hodges, Mrs. Howard Burns and Mrs. Helen B. Martin. The board organized with Mr. Davis as president, Mr. Hodges, vice president, and Mr. Pierson, secretary.

In order to further comply with the terms of Andrew Carnegie and his proposed donation of $10,000, the city council made an appropriation of $4000 and the library board began looking for a suitable detached site to be purchased by the city. The Bowman lots, on the south side of the square were selected as by far the most available and were finally purchased.

Everyone gave liberally for the library. Clubs held book showers; Thos. H. Boyd had offered a building site; Sam Eldred, wealthy Chicagoan, willed his library of several thousand volumes to Carrollton; and John Schwarz offered a room in his south side building rent free for six months for a temporary reading room. His offer was accepted and opened Nov. 18, 1901 - the actual beginning of a public library - and Mrs. Helen Martin was employed as librarian at $15 a month, the reading room to be open each afternoon.

The Bowman site having been purchased, plans for the building were adopted and the contract was let in February, 1902, to Thos. S. Moore for the brickwork and to M.L.

Reed for the carpenter work, the total price being $9318, the building to be completed by October 31. Completed according to contract, the building was described as 63 x 10 in size, two stories and basement, walls of mat-faced brick, slate roof. The main floor was arranged for library and reading room, the second floor, a small auditorium, seating about 200, and a club room, the two separated by a rolling partition, the club room serving as a stage for the auditorium.

Carnegie gave $6000 in September, 1902, as first installment of the $10,000, and a contribution of $500 was received from Mrs. M. C. Kelsey of Chicago as a memorial to her father, Judge Boyd.

The library was moved into the new building the second week in Nov., 1902. The preceding week, Mrs. Martin resigned as librarian, as she was moving to another state, and Miss Laura Wright, who had been her assistant, was appointed to the vacancy. Miss Wright served as librarian from 1902 until 1914. She was succeeded by Mrs. Ruth Baltz, 1914-1968. The present librarian is Mrs. Hilda Little and the Library Board at the present time: Clem Dunsworth, president, Mrs. Alma Daum, secretary-treasurer, Robert Schacher, Frank Daniels, Mrs. Emma Clough and Gilbert K. Hutchens.

LIBRARY

The Post Office at Carrollton was first established in 1822, with John W. Skidmore as Post Master. He was succeeded by Samuel Lee, Jr. Mr. Lee was succeeded by Philip N. Rumpy. At this time the Post Office was located in the Court House.

At one time the Post Office was located on the west side of the square in what is now the Farm Bureau building. Later it was located in the building on the west side of the square, now occupied by Dr. A. D. Wilson. It was in this location until it moved to its present location, a block east of the square, on East North Main Street.

The present Post Office was completed on June 1, 1932, nineteen years after the government had purchased the site.

LOCAL PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Its schools have always been "The Pride of Carrolton". Even back in 1852, when the severely plain two-story frame school house, with four school rooms and a little square belfry on top, was erected on the southeast corner of the block on which the county jail was built seven years later.

Schools there were of a sort, back in the early days of the village, the "loud school" in which the pupils all studied aloud in a babel of confusion. Julius Willard conducted a school on more civilized lines and introduced the use of a blackboard. These early schools were sustained solely by subscription, parents paying a quarterly fee for tuition.

The first public school in Carrolton was opened in the fall of 1850, by William Bartle, afterwards a Presbyterian minister, whose strong anti-slavery views led to his discharge.

John Russell, who had previously won distinction as author and educator, and had been editor of the first newspaper in Greene County, was the second principal of the school. He opened the school in the fall of 1851 and was assisted by Henry Bonfoy, with Miss E. J. Gunning in charge of the "female" department.

In January 1852, a new building was dedicated, with an address by Judge Woodson. The severely plain two-story frame school house, with four school rooms and a little square belfry on top, was erected on the southeast corner of the block on which the county jail was built seven years later.

The public school of that period, and for several years afterward, was modeled after the old academy system, and was very unlike the present grade school. Little attention was given to primary education, more stress being made upon Latin, Greek, French, Geometry, etc. Tuition fees, varying from $1.00 to $1.00 per quarter, were charged, but those who lived in the district received the benefit of the school first. The school must have been supported largely from tuition payments, as it appears from the records that not until 1855 was the school tax regularly levied.

In 1855, David G. Peabody was employed as principal, with a salary of $600.00, and his sister, Miss Hannah G. Peabody, was his assistant. The latter continued as a teacher here for 31 years, and many who became prominent in Carrolton affairs were her pupils.

Charles K. Gilchrist, later a distinguished jurist of Utah, was principal in 1857-58. He was succeeded by Dr. Justus Bulkley, later of Shurtleff College, Upper Alton, who taught here two winters. Francis W. Parker made the start of a famous career in education, as principal of the school in 1860. He resigned to go into the Civil War, and later originated what was known as the "Quincy System" at Quincy, Massachusetts; afterward was principal of the Cook County Normal of Chicago. Alfred Harvey, also taught and became widely known in later years.

The public endured the proximity of the county jail on an adjacent corner for eleven years. In 1870, the second school was erected on the present school grounds. Measured by architectural standards of that time, it was a magnificent building, three stories, a basement and a mansard roof. It cost $44,000.00. It continued to be looked on with pride for eighteen years, and then on the night of November 16, 1888, it burned.

Going back to the beginning of that eighteen year period, Joseph Dobbin, then principal, transferred the pupils to that building in January 1871. W. H. Wilson was principal in the school year of 1871-1872.

In 1872, E. A. Doolittle became principal, and effected the complete organization of the High School. He continued at the head of the school for seven years. Following Mr. Doolittle, J. S. Kenyon was principal for three years, and in 1882 he was succeeded by David Felmley, who had been assistant principal under him. Mr. Felmley continued as principal for eight years, resigning in 1890 to accept the chair of mathematics in the State Normal University, of which institution he was afterward president for a number of years.

Fire destroyed the building in 1888, and steps were taken at once to replace it with a more modern structure. With $16,875.00 from insurance, $12,000.00 in bonds, voted by the people, and Principal Felmley superintending the job, the board of education erected a new building.

Upon the resignation of Mr. Felmley in 1890, Clyde Stone was promoted from the position of first assistant to that of principal, continuing as head of the school for nine years. He is the only graduate of the High School who ever attained that position. He was a member of the class of 1883 and graduated from the University of Michigan in 1888.

LOOMIS OBSERVATORY

In 1895, the erection of Loomis Observatory marked an important epoch in the history of the High School. Mr. L. W. Loomis, a member of the board of education, offered to give for the use of the school the fine, seven inch lens telescope which he was then completing, provided a suitable building was erected to contain it. The offer was accepted and Loomis Observatory, a stone and brick structure was erected.

From 1899 to 1903, the school was in charge of E. A. Thornhill. Up to this time the High School course covered only three years, with an additional year for students taking Latin. Under Mr. Thornhill the course was raised to a full four years, with German added.

A. B. Carroll followed Mr. Thornhill for one year, and was succeeded by J. R. Sparks, who was the first to be officially styled "Superintendent", the title of "Principal" now falling to the first assistant. During Mr. Sparks' regime of two years (1905 and 1906) manual training and domestic science were introduced into the curriculum.

In the fall of 1907, Mr. E. A. Doolittle consented to return to the position he had resigned 26 years before to enter law practice. Many of his former pupils believed that his return saved the prestige of the school.

The school ran along smoothly for thirteen more years under Superintendent Doolittle, making a total of twenty years as head of the school.

T. H. Cobb became Superintendent in the fall of 1919 and served three years. During the next eight years Superintendents were: J. G. Pollard, 1922-1923; H. H. Davis, 1923-1924; E. T. Jackson, 1924-1927; Reuben Eber, 1927-1929; P. M. Tinsley, 1929-1930.

The need for more room was felt more than a dozen years ago. In May 1926, the contract was let for a large addition to the building, 45 x 125 feet. This addition nearly doubled the High School assembly room, provided a large gymnasium, used for entertainments, commencements, etc., domestic science and other class rooms and numerous other improvements.

Superintendents since 1930 include:

1930-1940, Abel A. Hanson
1940-1941, Olin W. Stead (Resigned to serve in the Armed Forces during World War II.
1942-1943, William R. Lowrey
1944-1946, Arbon Wetzel
1947-1959, Olin W. Stead

In 1952 the Carrollton and Eldred Schools were consolidated. The Community Unit District 1 takes care of students from Carrollton, Eldred (a community nine miles distant) and all the surrounding country students.

The first grade school was built in Mt. Gilead community, which was dedicated in 1955. This school was used until 1961. It is presently used as a Nursing Home.

The present Carrollton Community Unit High School, a new, modern building, was dedicated in 1956.

The old high school was torn down. The addition built in 1925, was left standing. To this, a new addition was added in 1961, which is now the Carrollton Grade School.

Louis Schrieter, the present Superintendent, was employed in 1959.

Present School Board Members are:

Paul Pressler, President
Neil Carter	Mrs. Robert Reynolds
Jake Claflin	Paul Hindelang
Henry Cordes, Jr.	Melvin Greer

EDUCATION TODAY

Our community has three fine educational institutions, consisting of two elementary schools and one large high school which takes care of students from Carrollton, Eldred (a community nine miles distant) and all the surrounding country students.

GRADE SCHOOL

ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL BUILT 1877

ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL

St. John's Parochial School was established in 1877. It was first housed in a one story frame building on the north side of South Main Street nearly opposite the two story brick building which was erected in 1904. For a number of years only the elementary branches were taught, and many of its pupils entered and graduated from the Carrollton High School. From the start the school was taught by the Dominican Sisters.

The school building had been planned with a view to the ultimate establishment of a high school, and the plan was accomplished in 1922. The first graduating class, composed of eight boys and eight girls, received diplomas at the commencement exercises June 1, 1926. The High School continued for thirty years, the last class to graduate was in June 1956.

A new eight room grade school and gymnasium was erected south of the present Church and dedicated May 23, 1968, with an enrollment of 200 pupils. It is considered one of the most modern schools in this area.

Carrollton Grade School. First built as an addition to the old Carrollton School in 1956 when grade and high school buildings were separated. The one-story addition was added in 1961 and old part razed.

HIGH SCHOOL

LUTHERAN CHURCH AND SCHOOL

A SCHOOL OF YESTERDAY

LUTHERAN CHRISTIAN DAY SCHOOL

In 1915 a Christian Day School was opened with thirteen pupils, taught by Pastor A. O. Kaul. The school was conducted in a renovated chicken house standing where the present church building is located. Mr. Herman J. Speckhard became the teacher of the school in the fall of 1916, the school then being conducted in the Machine Shop in back of the Greene County Bank. Construction of the present church building got under way in 1916. From the fall of 1917 until the closing of the school in January 1958, after the teacher, Herman J. Speckhard, had accepted a call to St. Stephens' Lutheran School in Hickory, North Carolina, the school was conducted in the basement of the church.

Catholic Grade School conducted by the Dominican Sisters and Secular Priests. This new school built in 1968 replaces school built in the early 1900's (used as both grade and high school for a time.)

CHURCHES

Carrollton is the proud possessor of eight different churches and religious organizations, thus showing the great amount of interest of the citizens of Carrollton in religion

METHODIST CHURCH

The Dodgson family, coming from Yorkshire, England, in 1821, were the pioneers of Methodism here. They settled about two and a half miles north of Carrollton, and a year or two later formed a society called Hopewell Class, which was the first organization of Methodists in the county. A few years later, this society built a brick church a little north of Daniel Morfoot's, and that continued a preaching place for many years.

The Methodist Episcopal Church of Carrollton was organized in 1832. The congregation first worshipped in the courthouse, and afterward in a school house on the east side of the square. In 1836, a brick church building was erected, and this was torn down to make room for a better and more sightly structure, which was built in 1850-51. This was later a blacksmith shop, southwest of the square. The building in which the congregation now gather, was erected in 1883.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The Baptist Church was organized in 1821 by Elder Jones of Madison County. Their first meeting house was a log cabin not far from the residence of Dr. J. F. Simpson. Among the original members of this church was Thomas Carlin, the founder of the town, and afterward the governor of the state. In the course of time, it moved eastward, and is now Providence Church. On the 28th of April 1827, at the house of Justus Rider, in the town of Carrollton, was founded the present Baptist Church of Carrollton.

OUR REDEEMER LUTHERAN CHURCH

When still stationed as a missionary in Jerseyville, Illinois, the late Rev. Norman G. Schumm canvassed the town of Carrollton, Illinois, and decided to conduct Lutheran services there. The first service was held in the Episcopal Church in Carrollton on January 15, 1933. After some time, Pastor Schumm took up residence in Carrollton, renting the building at 116 North Seventh Street, which later was purchased by the congregation and used as a residence by our teacher.

During the pastorate of the Rev. A. O. Kaul, in 1945, the Lutheran Mission in Carrollton adopted a constitution and became formally organized.

Pastor Kaul, during his pastorate in Carrollton, originated the publication, "The Lutheran Evangelist," which later came to be known as The World Wide Evangelist. In 1945 the Carrollton congregation, now known as Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, joined the Synod.

At present Pastor Duncan Stevenson of Dorsey, Illinois, is serving as vacancy pastor.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The Christian Church was organized in 1832, under the ministry of Elder B. W. Stone, with approximately 120 members. After a time there was dissension among some of the members and early in 1841 this church passed out of existence. In September of the same year, the church reorganized with 28 or 29 members. D. W. Kennett was chosen as elder. From that time on this church has had a very prosperous existence.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

On the 30th of April 1823, a little knot of people, among whom were Rev. Oren Catlin and Rev. D. G. Sprague, met at the house of Zachariah Allen, in Carrollton, to confer upon the subject of organizing a Presbyterian Church. A second meeting of the kind was held soon after, and, finally, upon the 1th of May 1823, at a meeting held at the old courthouse, was instituted a church of this denomination, with a membership of twenty-one in number. The infant church could not have a shelter that it could call its own, but meetings were held, as circumstances would permit, sometimes in the courthouse, sometimes in a blacksmith shop near the northwest corner of the square. In 1837, a church building was erected. The present imposing church edifice was erected in 1867-68.

ST. JOHN'S CATHOLIC CHURCH

In 1853 the Catholics of Carrollton were occasionally visited by the Alton Clergy; then by priests from Jerseyville and other points. They first met for worship at the log cabin of Thomas Butler, later in what had previously been the Christian Church building. In 1860, Rev. J. B. Meri, a German priest, called at stated times. Rev. Adolphus Laurent, a French priest succeeded him. After difficulties and disappointments, they built a little brick church in 1863, when Father Klein took charge as resident pastor. Rev. John Sheridan was resident pastor in 1861-1865, and was succeeded by Rev. T. J. Clifford, whose heroic efforts during the cholera epidemic edified the community. One of his successors, Rev. A. J. Sauer, built an addition to the church in 1882 in the form of a cross wing, giving it a seating capacity for 550 persons. Father Sauer was pastor from 1877 to 1892. Rev. H. J. Boven, a German, 1892-1903, was widely known as an accomplished musician and skillful organist. During Rev. J. J. Driscoll's term of office, the parochial school which was in use until May 1968, was built. He was an American and remained from 1903-1907, when Rev. D. J. Moroney took charge. Other pastors following them were: Rev. Michael Sheehy (1920-21), Rev. T. E. Cusack (1921-25), in whose term St. John's High School was originated, Rev. Thos. Costello (1926-37), Rev. Michael Enright (1937-1966), and the present pastor, Rev. Francis Cunningham.

ASSEMBLY OF GOD CHURCH

A Pentecostal Church was organized in Carrollton about fifty years ago, and a frame building was erected, north of the public school building, about forty-eight years ago. It is now known as the Church of God, and has been served for brief periods by quite a number of pastors and evangelists.

TRINITY EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Prior to 1871, the members of the Episcopal congregation in Carrollton held their services in the courthouse. Judge C. D. Hodges donated a lot on which to build a church. A frame structure was erected and was dedicated March 10, 1872. It was destroyed by fire August 19, 1886. It was replaced by a brick building, gothic in style, and was opened October 2, 1887. The congregation later disbanded and, after periods of occupation by other denominations and, vacancy, and as a teen center, the premises were sold to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Price, who dismantled the the church and replaced it with a modern brick home.

CARROLLTON FAITH BAPTIST CHURCH

The Carrollton Faith Baptist Mission had its beginnings in January 1955, and was organized as a church on January 26, 1958. The church was founded by the Rev. Francis Varble. The congregation met in the former Episcopal Church where they continued until a new church was built on South Third Street in 1960.

The present pastor is the Rev. Charles Barnes who recently moved to Carrollton from East St. Louis.

BANKS

THE GREENE COUNTY NATIONAL BANK

The first bank established in Greene County was founded by David Pierson. In that year Mr. Pierson started the bank in connection with his mercantile business. Four years later he turned his entire attention to banking and in 1859 he began the erection of the three story brick building at the northwest corner of the square, the building presently occupied by A. D. Wilson, M.D.

In 1874, Mr. Pierson's sons, Robert and David D. Pierson, became partners in the firm of David Pierson & Sons, what was then known as "Pierson's Exchange Bank." During the panics of 1857 - 1872 when nearly every bank in the state was closed, this institution never refused to meet a just demand.

DEDICATION OF THOMAS H. BOYD MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

The Thomas H. Boyd Memorial Hospital was dedicated Sunday afternoon, September 21, 1941, climaxing an ambition for years in this community. The institution was donated in memory of Thomas H. Boyd by his daughter, Mrs. Virginia Boyd Kelsey. After the dedication rites conducted by the Rev. Paul R. Zwilling of Deaconess Hospital, St. Louis, a concert was given by the Carrollton School Band, then the hospital was opened to the public. With pride, approximately three thousand people viewed the new hospital.

The story begins when the late Mrs. Virginia Kelsey of Chicago left to the city of Carrollton $150,000 to be used to erect a hospital, if the physicians of Carrollton wanted it, and would agree to serve on the board. This sum, Mrs. Kelsey felt, could pay for a hospital which might be a fitting memorial to her father, the late Judge Thomas A. Boyd, prominent resident of Carrollton.

However, it developed that some of Mrs. Kelsey's fortune had been lost in power investments during the 1930 crash. The $150,000 fund had dwindled to $35,000 for building purposes and $25,000 for an endowment fund. Now $35,000 doesn't go far and it is at this point the people of the community entered the scene. Residents of Carrollton and vicinity reasoned that a fine building could be erected with $35,000, providing the money could be devoted to the building only, and they decided to take upon themselves the job of furnishing and equipping the hospital.

A Corporation was formed with Dr. A. K. Baldwin, President, Dr. A. D. Wilson, Secretary-Treasurer, Dr. S. F. March, Dr. W. F. Waggoner, Joseph Clark, Sr., Jack McDonald and Francis Vaughn formed the Board of Trustees. On this board, Mr. Ben W. Mehl acted as the Chairman of Finance.

These men were formerly in charge of construction of the building and the purchase of equipment, but they are the loudest in protesting that they gave nothing that wasn't given by everybody else, who gave of their time and money according to their means. Sums were donated ranging from 50 cents to $1000 and donations came from as far away as California from former residents. The late Justice Norman L. Jones donated the site upon which the Thomas H. Boyd Hospital was built.

Mrs. Bernice Meade, former head nurse at Deaconess Hospital at Lincoln, Illinois was the Superintendent of the new 20 bed hospital and served faithfully until her resignation October 1, 1965. During her administration there were two additions added. In 1950 the west wing was built and in 1955 a second wing was added for obstetrics, increasing the capacity of the hospital to 50 beds.

Following the resignation and retirement of Mrs. Meade, Roy Shoemaker, Anna, Illinois became the new administrator in October 1965, and at present is serving the hospital in this capacity.

At the time of this publication a 26,000 square foot addition is being constructed, this will include an extended care facility called, "The Reisch Memorial Addition", with a total cost of some $900,000, this cost includes furnishing and equipment. This project will be accomplished from money received from the wills of the late, Mardena F. Reisch and Louis Reisch Estates, also the, Hill Burton Grant and from local contributions from many Greene County citizens.

Serving the hospital on the Board of Trustees at the present time are: Arthur K. Baldwin, M.D., Arthur D. Wilson, M.D., Paul A. Dailey, M.D., Jack McDonald, Joseph S. Clark, Francis Vaughn and Thomas S. Hough.

B. W. Mehl came to the City of Carrollton to work for Frank Kergher in his funeral establishment November 12, 1918 and remained with him until Mr. Kergher's death in 1934. The Kergher Funeral and Furniture business was started back in the 1800's by Conrad Kergher, father of Frank Kergher.

In early 1935 Mr. Mehl and son Everett bought the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Barnett, which had been the family home of both Mrs. Laura Funnell and Mr. and Mrs. George Davis, for the purpose of establishing the first Funeral Home in the City of Carrollton.

Mr. B. W. Mehl passed away in 1959. Since that time the Home has been operated by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mehl.

HARDWARE, STOVES AND FURNITURE - This combination was carried on by the S. E. Simpson and Company. It was started on the west side of the square in 1886 at which time S. E. Simpson and S. A. ## COLUMBIANA SEED COMPANY

While not actually a part of Carrollton, but certainly an industry that is an important factor in the economy of the whole Carrollton Community, we recognize the many years of service by Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Best and their family, owners of Columbiana Farms and Columbiana Seed Company.

The Columbiana Enterprises are located largely in the Columbiana Farms between Eldred and Kampsville. The Columbiana Farm consists of 1,500 acres of land formerly acquired and cleared by Edward Boyle. To this acreage 2,200 acres has been added by the Best Family.

General farming is carried on in addition to the production of hybrid seed corn for the states of Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, and North and South Carolina.

Columbiana Seed Company is said to be the largest independent seed company in existence, and has produced 15,000 acres of seed in one year. It has 30 drying plants, 7 processing plants and 3 refrigeration plants in the Mississippi Valley between Route 36 and Memphis, Tennessee. Most of the seed is produced in Greene, Jersey and Scott Counties in Illinois with lesser amounts in Southern Illinois and Tennessee.

Columbiana produces 3,500 hogs each year and feeds 6,000 to 7,000 cattle.

Columbiana has approximately 10,000 pecan trees of which over half are grafted trees of the best varieties known in Northern United States. The nut trees are fertilized, and sprayed to produce the highest quality of nuts. The trees are shaken, the nuts picked up, cleaned and sized with special machinery. Many varieties are proven as valuable as corn on an acre basis.

Columbiana has 200 regular employees and hire many more during the rush season.

SIERRA MOTEL

The Sierra Motel was built in 1956, by Milton (Pick) Tribble. Building started in April and was completed in July. In 1957, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Banghart purchased the motel and are operating it under the same name "Sierra Motel".

GREENE COUNTY FARM BUREAU

The history of the organization of the Greene County Farm Bureau dates back to the Greene County Fair of 1913. The Greene County Fair Association President, the late Henry T. Rainey, took note that several farmers in the county were in favor of a farm organization with a paid Farm Adviser. In February 1914, the Greene County Farm Improvement Association was formed with the following officers: Brace Fane, President; John H. Thomas, Vice President; L. H. Raffety, Secretary; and L. T. Lee, Treasurer. The Association did not survive due to lack of finances.

Articles favorable to an organization of farmers appeared in county newspapers. Many farmers wrote letters requesting the organization and voluntary workers enrolled members. The organization meeting was held January 3, 1915 with 220 charter members.

Louis Lowenstein of White Hall was the first president. E. M. Phillips was employed in March as the first farm adviser, and on April 26, 1915 opened an office on the southwest corner of the square.

The 1968 officers are: Eldon Starkweather, Farm Adviser, James Esarey, President, and Mrs. Eloise Tholen, Home Adviser.

Mr. Simpson was Republican Chairman of Greene County for a period of 30 years, a member of the executive committee of the County Chairman's Association of Illinois, City Treasurer of Carrollton for one term, and a member of the Carrollton Board of Education.

On January 3, 1913, he first took the oath of office as an elected Representative to the 78th Congress for the 20th District of Illinois, and was re-elected for seven successive terms. He served on the Committee on Agriculture for all but the first four of his sixteen years in Congress; as a member of the House District of Columbia Committee for sixteen years, being chairman of this committee during the 83rd Congress and never ceasing his activity and interest in legislation relating to his Nation's Capitol; and as a member of the National Rivers and Harbors Committee. He had been renominated to the 86th Congress at the time of his death, which occurred on October 26, 1958, in Pittsfield, Illinois. He was married to the former Edna Oakes on February 1, 1920, and she and their daughters, Martha (Mrs. Arthur Stoffel, Jr.) and Janet, survive. Mrs. Edna Simpson was elected as Representative to the 86th Congress, 1958-1960. She was a member of the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs and of the Committee on House Administration.

WALNUT HALL

This stately old home, with its stone-gated entry, was purchased by Mr. Rainey from John H. Longmeyer on September 1, 1909. It had formerly been known as the Luman Curtius homestead and was built in 1858 of brick burned on the ground, with hand-carved woodwork. Mr. Rainey's special hobby was that of beautifying the place, preserving its splendid old trees, and transforming the grounds about the residence into a beautiful park, with three lakes, flower gardens, fish ponds, classic pagodas and bits of statuary. East of the house he turned a pasture into a deer park, stocked with a herd of Japanese deer. He also turned his attention to dairy farming, erecting one of the finest dairy barns in this part of Illinois, and built up a splendid herd of Holsteins. In addition to the original 200 acres, he bought adjoining tracts and the farm soon comprised 355 acres. The house itself was furnished throughout with antiques from every country on the globe.

Mrs. Rainey had been the first president of the local council of the Girl Scouts in Washington D.C., taking her work and passing her tests under Juliette Lowe, the founder of the Girl Scouts of America, and both Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts found Walnut Hall a happy hunting ground, with every facility for picnics, camping and swimming.

After dissolving his partnership with Justice Norman L. Jones, Mr. Rainey moved his office to Walnut Hall and Mrs. Rainey was his personal secretary. In the library of the great house, he transacted business in the summer and received delegations of farm friends. As a country squire, Speaker Rainey grew to be the community's most revered citizen.

CARROLLTON, HOME OF HENRY T. RAINEY, SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

For many years this sign stood just outside of town, but on August 22, 1934, this sign, as well as the Courthouse entrance and other public buildings, were draped with black and white flags of mourning. This was the day "Henry T." was laid to his eternal rest beside the graves of his parents in Carrollton Cemetery.

Escorted by a huge detail of motorcycle policemen and about twenty cars, the funeral cortege arrived in Carrollton from St. Louis where Speaker Rainey's death had occurred at DePaul Hospital on August 19th. His body was taken to the rotunda of the Greene County Courthouse which was banked with beautiful floral tributes where he lay in state from 9:00 A.M. to 1:00 P.M., with a detail of the Carrollton American Legion Post standing solemn guard. A continuous double line of people passed by to look for the last time upon the calm face of the man who had been born in Carrollton almost 74 years before, and had become one of its most prominent citizens.

At 1:00 the procession started from the Courthouse, out North Main Street and State Highway 108, the mile to the Rainey Home. The driveway leading up to the residence had been transformed into an avenue of flags at half staff. Along the roadway between town and the home, Boy Scouts and Legionnaires formed a continuous guard of honor.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived by special train from Washington D.C. at 3:35 P.M. and was met by Senator William H. Dieterich, Governor Henry Horner and Justice Norman L. Jones of the Illinois Supreme Court, a long-time friend and former law partner, who accompanied him to the Rainey homestead where the brief and simple ritual of the Episcopal Church was read by Bishop John Chanler White of Springfield. Active Pallbearers were old neighbors and associates of Speaker Rainey in Carrollton: John J. Eldred and S. E. Pierson, bankers, William Hubbard and Bruce Fain, farmers, L. A. Mehroff, lawyer, and Sid Simpson, garage owner. President Roosevelt remained inside until after the heavy copper casket had been placed in the hearse and the procession to the cemetery began. He did not go to the cemetery but was taken directly back to his train which left Carrollton at 5:31 P.M. to return to Washington.

The President's coming was a marker of the greatness of Mr. Rainey for never before had a president of the United States set foot in this little Illinois town, and the great turnout of upwards from 20,000 of his old neighbors and constituents was a marker of the esteem in which Speaker Rainey was held in his home bailiwick.

HISTORICAL MARKERS

THE CANNON

The Carlin Monument, given by General Wm. Passmore Carlin was informally unveiled September 28, 1901 to the memory of all Greene County Soldiers and Sailors.

Surmounting the massive pile of simple and classical design, rests the hundred-pounder gun which weighs about five ton, and was given to the Carrollton Post, G.A.R. by United States Government.

The gun, one of the largest type in active service during the Civil War, was at one time on the gun boat, Sassacus. It arrived at Carrollton, Illinois, the County Seat, October 26, 1900 and was formally dedicated October 21, 1901.

HENRY T. RAINEY MONUMENT

In November 1902, Henry Thomas Rainey was elected to the Lower House of Congress and served from 1903 to 1921, and from 1923 until his death.

The statue and the park in which it stands were dedicated August 12, 1937.

Walnut Hall Farm, Rainey's beautiful home is located about a mile east of Carrollton.

In memory of the citizens who served our Country in World War II, dedicated by the Lion's Club in 1947.

HINTON HOUSE - TODAY

Built about 1832 by James Reno, father of the now famous Major Marcus A. Reno. It was known at that time as the "Tavern House." The name was changed to the "Hinton House" in 1850 when Judge Alfred Hinton bought it for a combined hotel, tavern, general store, stage coach stop and drug store (one of the first drug stores). From 1890 to 1896 this building was known as the Bassham house and was one of the leading hotels of Carrollton under the management of W. F. Stock. From 1896 to 1900 it was known as West Side House. One of its most famous patrons was Abraham Lincoln.

Today, this building is known as the "Hinton House" and houses the Greene County Historical Society (as well as apartments, bus station and appliance store). The first meeting of this society was held Feb. 22, 1952. Mrs. Lansing Dickson was its first President. Mr. John Griswold now holds this office. They discover and collect items of historical value, provide for preservation of material and make it accessible to the public, hoping one day to restore Hinton House as a museum and historical landmark, with an appropriate plaque in honor of Major Marcus A. Reno.

The Widdowson Lumber Company was started in 1885 by Alvin Pegram, who sold to L. S. Bushnell. Title passed to J. M. Widdowson (father and grandfather of the present owners) in 1893.

In 1931 after the death of his father, J. M. Widdowson continued the Lumber Company. In 1945 he purchased the Walter A. Brown Lumber Company and merged the two yards.

In 1958, Herbert W. Widdowson, son of J. M. Widdowson, joined the firm. The name changed at this time to J. M. Widdowson and is still doing business at the original location.

BALTZ BROS. AND COMPANY BUILDING

Baltz Bros. and Co. were established on May 5, 1885, by George Baltz, veteran wagon maker, and his sons, Henry and Joseph. They leased a building, which had been erected in 1877, from the Carrollton Manufacturing Company. They purchased the building in 1885.

Early advertisements included - machinery repair, ironwork, horseshoeing, woodwork and painting wagons and farm machinery.

Slowly the business changed. Bicycles became very popular. Horseshoeing declined as automobiles increased. Factory made goods replaced hand made articles. A sales force replaced the labor force.

George and Francis Baltz, sons of Henry Baltz, worked in the store while still in school. After graduation, they opened an auto repair shop. Upon returning home from service in World War I, they purchased the T. D. Pratt Garage and opened the Baltz Filling Station and Baltz Feed Store. Later they returned to the original Baltz Bros. Company.

The historical old Baltz Building was razed in January 1966 to be replaced by the Kroger Supermarket.

In January 1966, George Baltz opened the present Baltz Bros. and Company Store on the west side of the square. He is the oldest retailer on the square, both in age and the number of years in business.

EMPCO - Built and opened in July 1953. Contract Manufacturers of small parts. First managers - Ben Kania, Sr. and Earl Sherwood. Gale Brock has been manager since 1955.

MRS. ROCKWELL (Center)

The store known as Rockwell's in "Ladies Ready To Wear" was bought by Mrs. Mary Rockwell, June 20, 1920 from McGillen-Bowman. She had previously been affiliated with the Sharon Store for twelve years.

Mary Rockwell celebrated her 85th birthday on May 29, 1964.

In June of 1965 the store was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Price and was opened for business February 1, 1965, under the name of "Betty of Rockwells."

Mary Rockwell was the founder and first president of the Business and Professional Woman's Club, which was organized in May 1925. Mrs. Rockwell passed away May 1967.

MANUFACTURING TODAY

MANUFACTURING YESTERDAY

In 1850 (just 29 years after the site of Carrollton was decided upon) the CARROLLTON MACHINE SHOP AND FOUNDRY was founded, it was one of the most extensive manufacturing establishments in the County. It grew from a small cross-road blacksmith shop to such proportions that it required the accommodations of the brick building, known to us as the Baltz Brothers Building, formerly located on the southwest corner of the square. The business was owned by William W. and R. B. Winn and was sold in 1877 to J. C. Burruss. About 20 men were employed making Hollow Ware, Aquaria, House fronts and casting machinery.

From out of the History of Greene County, we learn of the MACHINE SHOP AND FOUNDRY, owned and operated by Oswald Jackson. It stood one block south of the square. Mr. Jackson conducted his work with skill and energy and was prepared to fill all orders in machine or foundry work in the most scientific manner, making a specialty of house front work, columns, step lates, window sills, etc.

In 1852, a grist mill, equipped with three run of buhrs, was built by Wright & Germain at a cost of $10,000. In September 1862, F. P. Vedder purchased the property of R. F. Germain, who had bought out his partner some time previous. In March 1863, he disposed of it to David Pierson. In April 1881, it was purchased by Thomas Hough who was born in England in 1844 and came to Carrollton in 1863, where he worked in Pierson's flour mill. He remodeled the mill, putting in a full set of roller machinery for making the best quality of flour the market afforded. This mill, known as the CARROLLTON ROLLER MILL, burned in 1886. In 1889, Mr. Hough started a lumberyard. He died in 1922.

Alvin Pegram, an enterprising LUMBER AND GRAIN DEALER, built an elevator in 1850, north of the depot. Later the ADVANCE MILL AND ELEVATOR was erected in the west part of town, where the flour "Pride of Carrollton" was milled. This ELEVATOR proved to be one of largest manufacturing establishments in Carrollton and the "Pride of Carrollton" was shipped all over the United States. The heaviest shipments were made to the southern states. The flour was sold and shipped in car load lots. The mill employed a large number of people, but it, too, was destroyed by fire.

1885 - There were TWO ELEVATORS in the city, one operated by R. H. Davis, current member of the General Assembly, and the other by Hussey and Company.

We also had a CANNING FACTORY located in the east end of the City. It employed a large force of people and canned a variety of vegetables and fruits. The best tomatoes in the world were canned at that factory. If your hands were small enough you could easily reach through the crates and help yourself.

THE GREENE COUNTY CREAMERY, established October 2, 1885, was located on Fourth Street in what is known as the old factory. It was established by a stock company, the officers being: John Kaser, A. J. Tunnell, Frank P. Greene, N. J. Andrews, and Wm. D. Waltrip. The company was composed of 33 stockholders.

CARROLLTON CARRIAGE MANUFACTORY - H. R. Watt, 1864.

THE EAGLEHOFF CARRIAGE AND WAGON FACTORY was a thriving manufacturing establishment, located east of the Scott Manufacturing Company in the then, three story brick building, which now houses the Carrollton fire truck and the Schneider Feed Store.

WAGON, CARRIAGE AND BUGGY MAKER - Thomas Cooper, May 1, 1852.

Louis Hensler manufactured wagons and did BLACKSMITHING.

D. H. Gillespie owned the SAW MILLS south of town that provided some of the lumber that repaired the old board walks we used to have. The lumber was sold to the City by contract as the city had need of large numbers of planks to replace the broken ones.

On August 22, 1874, Lombard and Company opened a STEAM FEATHER RENOVATING ESTABLISHMENT on the southwest corner of the square and planned to locate in the city if business justified the move.

The year 1860 brought Loomis & Villingier who made a specialty of Manufacturing MICROSCOPES, TELESCOPES, SPY GLASSES AND OTHER OPTICAL OR ELECTRIC INSTRUMENTS.

Most of you remember the old chimney that stood for a number of years just west and a little south of the school house, the last reminder that at one time there had been a WOOLEN MILL, and a thriving industry. Around that chimney was one of the finest daisy patches you have ever seen or heard about, an ideal place to play hokey from school and pick hands full of flowers.

Charles A. Weimer, CIGAR MANUFACTURER, established his business in 1873. He was also a retailer of all kinds of tobacco, pipes, etc. He had an extensive business and employed about 28 people, with a capacity to double that number. The factory was supplied with the very best and most improved machinery, operated by a water motor. It was arranged for comfort as well as good work, a number of power fans being scattered through the building to keep it cool in summer. The output of the factory for a year was 1,500,000 cigars. His goods were well and favorably known throughout Illinois and Missouri and as far west as Montana.

In the year 1902 Roy Williams and James Spencer started factory. In April 1903 the factory was incorporated with Roy Williams, James Spencer and George Keiper as stock holders. The company was known as the WILLIAMS AND SPENCER CIGAR COMPANY. This factory employed eight cigar makers, four strippers and one packer, at a weekly pay roll of $177.00. The largest order from this factory was for 10,000 cigars and the price of the cigars was $12.00 to $200.00 per thousand. Cigars were made by this company that cost $1.00 each, but James Spencer said that they did not make many of them at that price. The cigars were shipped to all cities in Central Illinois and Missouri, the largest order being received from St. Louis. About 2400 cigars were made in one day. In 1907 the factory went out of business.

Among the other CIGAR MANUFACTURERS were Miss Shirley and Miss Tatman, Pete and Notion Carmody. We also had our own hat and light plant, operated by Mr. Sinsbaugh. In more recent years we had an Overall Factory.

THE POULTRY PACKING BUSINESS, operated by Julius A. Wolfe, began in 1893, and was located in the west end of town. By 1896 his business increased to the extent of 250 ton of live and dressed poultry and 1000 cases of eggs, shipping most of them to the Boston and New York markets. His establishment gave employment to 10 or 12 men.

SCOTT CORNER

Thomas Scott Jr. was a MANUFACTURER OF STOVE AND TIN WARE. He was the sole manufacturer of the celebrated SCOTT HEATING STOVES and bore the reputation of being one of the most reliable dealers and manufacturers in the west. He started his business in 1868 on the north east corner of the square and in 1868 he erected the building on the south east corner of the square where the stoves were manufactured.

In the Spring of 1879, the CARROLLTON TILE WORKS, near the C & A passenger depot, was constructed by an enterprising gentleman, W. L. Barnett, who for the prior ten years had been frequently seen at the window of the C & A passenger depot at Carrollton, where he officiated as agent and telegraph operator. To his practical mind it became evident that what the farmers of Illinois were in need of was more tile and less wet land. With his usual zeal he set to work and the result was a tile works that would bear comparison with any other similar establishment. The clay used was of a very superior quality, and thoroughly ground before entering into the manufacture of the tile. The tile manufactured was from three to eight inches, of very superior quality, and found a ready sale. Mr. Barnett, senior member of this firm, was born in Indiana, November 11, 1846. When but eleven years old his parents moved to Mattoon, Illinois, where young Barnett received a liberal education. At the age of fifteen, he entered the employ of the Terre Haute Railroad Company, becoming a telegraph operator in the City of Mattoon, Illinois. When the Jacksonville division of the St. Louis J & C Railroad was constructed, he went to Murrayville, Morgan County, Illinois, where he officiated in his former capacity, and was probably the first operator on that line; proceeding from there to Jacksonville, thence to Mason City, remaining there thirteen months; then came to Carrollton.

A woman played a very important part of this community in the year 1876. She was Angeline Underwood, an Inventor and Manufacturer, who on the 26th day of December 1876 patented a spring pillow, known as the Underwood. She also invented the famous spring mattress, which was met with cordial reception by the public.

Henry C. Sieverling was born in Brunswick, Germany in 1828. While a boy he served an apprenticeship to learn the trade of machinist and blacksmith. At the age of 18, he was recognized as a first class workman. He came to America at the age of 21, and in 1858 he located in Woody, where he operated a wagon and blacksmith shop for 5 years. He came to Carrollton in 1866 and purchased J. C. Kelly's residence and wagon shop. He soon gained a lucrative and growing trade. After 38 years of active business he retired. The business was carried on by Julius Schumann, his partner for many years.

Later it was operated for many years by Elmer Williams but was torn down after his death.

FIRST ROADS LAID OUT

In 1821, roads were established going north, west, southwest and south from Carrollton. The road most traveled was the one leading to Alton. At that time it started in the southwest part of town, went west to the site of Mount Pleasant (the Mound), then past the Samuel Thomas place to a ford on Macoupin Creek and on southward. The old covered bridge crossing Macoupin Creek, which was still in use about 80 years ago, was built by Thomas Rattan in 1831-32. This bridge shortened the route to Alton by several miles. Records indicate that the Apple Creek bridge had been built at an earlier date.

This bridge was constructed over Macoupin Creek 6 miles south of Carrollton in 1831-32. It was later replaced with a steel bridge.

SCENES OF YESTERDAY

HODGES OFFICE BUILDING

The west part of the Hodges Office Building, located on the northwest corner of the square was built by Samuel Lee, Jr., the first County Clerk, as a residence, about the year 1829. His widow married Col. E. D. Baker and the latter sold the place to Dr. Heaton. Judge Hodges bought it in 1850 and a few years later built the two-story part. The Hodges used this as their home until their deaths. It was then purchased by the late Dr. N. D. Vedder and is still owned by his family.

THE HODGES RESIDENCE

THE HODGES FAMILY

Charles Drury Hodges was born in Queen Anne, Prince George County, Maryland, February 4, 1810. He enjoyed the best educational advantages, graduating from Trinity College, Hartford, Conn. in his 19th year. He studied law at Annapolis, Maryland, was admitted to the bar in 1831, and practiced law in that city a year or two. He came out west in 1833, and the arrival in the stage coach, one November day, of a young man fresh from an eastern city was an event of wonder and interest in the town of Carrollton. This was his home the remainder of his life, and here he achieved substantial success in the practice of his profession. He was married to Miss Ellen C. Hawley of Jerseyville, in 1839. In 1853 he was elected county judge and was re-elected 4 years later. In January 1859, he was the successful candidate for congress to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Major Harris. In 1867 he was made circuit judge and performed the difficult duties of this position with credit to himself for 6 years. He was then elected state senator and served 4 years, being a member of the legislatures of 1875 and 1877. Judge Hodges became actively identified with the railroad interests when in 1852, books were opened for subscriptions to the stock of the Carrollton and Jacksonville road. In 1858 he was made treasurer of the St. Louis, Jacksonville and Chicago railroad, as it was then called, and when it was leased to the Chicago and Alton, he became a director. He died April 1, 1884.

Ladies of the town remembered what an ordeal it was to "pass in review" while Mrs. Hodges and members of her family sat stiffly on the front porch, there being a proper way to hold your long skirt, your parasol, and a proper time to turn and make a very proper bow to those on the porch, all the while walking on an uneven plank walk.

Leigh Mitchell Hodges, a grandson of Judge Hodges, was born in Carrollton. He went to work for his uncle, R. M. White in the newspaper office of the Mexico Missouri Ledger. Later he was on the editorial staff of the Ladies Home Journal. For many years he was an editorial writer for the Philadelphia dailies. His column, "The Optimist" was an outstanding champion of optimism.

CAPTAIN JACOB FRY
About 1856

GENERAL JACOB FRY

Jacob Fry was born in Fayette County, Kentucky, September 20, 1799. He emigrated to Edwardsville while quite a young man, and in 1819 first visited this section. During his stay, it is said, he made, from boards split from a walnut tree, the first coffin constructed in the county. Returning to Alton he hewed the timber for the first mill there. He came back and settled here about the beginning of 1821. He was a prominent man in the new town from the start. He was a member of the first grand jury, was deputy sheriff in 1822, and was elected sheriff in 1828, holding the office for ten years. He was married to Miss Emily Turney, daughter of Attorney General James Turney, in May 1826. He served during the Black Hawk War as colonel, and at its close was elected major general of the militia. In 1837 he was appointed commissioner of the Illinois and Michigan Canal, and in 1856, collector of customs in Chicago. During the Rebellion he commanded a regiment which did valiant service at Shiloh. His last days were spent with his family on his farm, south of the Macoupin. He died around 1880. Captain Wm. Fry of Carrollton was his only surviving son.

At the time the commissioners located the county seat, there was not a house in Carrollton. The Carlin cabin was a half mile to the south. Mr. Carlin offered to give Jacob Fry a lot if he would build upon it, and the offer was accepted. The lot was situated at the southeast corner of the square. Mr. Fry cut the timber, split the boards and built a house which in later years became a part of the St. James Hotel and stood until that block was burned in 1878. Before General Fry completed his house, he stopped to assist Thomas Rattan in erecting a log tavern at the northeast corner of the square, on the present site of the Masonic Temple, and that was the first building in the town. General Fry's residence was the second.

THE COUNTY FAIR

The first fair association was organized as the Greene County Agricultural and Mechanical Society on April 15, 1854, with Luman Curtius, president; Joshua C. Winters, vice president, A. W. Bridges, treasurer and Francis P. Vedder, secretary. The first fair was held on the farm of J. E. Brace, near the northwest limits of Carrollton on October 12 of that year. Before the next annual exhibition took place, the society of some 230 members had purchased the grounds now occupied by and adjacent to the public grade school building. This site was improved and used until a 20-acre tract of land was purchased from Jeremiah Turpin on November 7, 1861. This tract, together with an additional 6 acres purchased from the Luman Curtius Estate and 8 acres from J. M. Widdowson, constitute the fair grounds of today. The fair association is now incorporated under the name of Greene County Agricultural Fair, Inc. Present officers are Stuart Fitzsimmons, president; Donald Allen, first vice president; Vernon Reynolds, second vice president; William Shade, secretary-treasurer and Eileen Cory, assistant secretary.

MRS. ANNA LOUISE COMBRINK KELLY

Anna Louise Combrink was born east of Carrollton, October 16, 1859, the daughter of William H. and Catherine Von Brock Combrink.

She was united in marriage to W. C. Kelly on March 14, 1882.

Four Presidents were assassinated during her lifetime, Lincoln, McKinley, Garfield and Kennedy. She recalled that the people in Greene County learned of Lincoln's death a day after it happened. She often recalled the political campaigns of the post Civil War period with speeches being made from wagons and torchlight parades.

Mrs. Kelly's husband preceded her in death December 9, 1945. She passed away April 3, 1966 at the age of 106. She was survived by three sons, Robert, Walter and Don Kelly, and four daughters, Mrs. Mayme Vaughn, Mrs. L. A. Flick, Mrs. Ada Ballard and Mrs. Francis Geers. ## FAMOUS VISITORS

In the summer of 1837 or 1838, Daniel Webster, the great statesman, who was on a tour of the west, accepted an invitation to visit Carrollton. Travel in those days was principally by stage coach for persons of Mr. Webster's position. A committee of fifty gentlemen of Carrollton met the stage at Macoupin Creek, south of town, gave Mr. Webster a cordial welcome and escorted him to town.

A grand barbecue in old Kentucky style provided the meats for the dinner, which was spread in the market house, in the square west of the court house. All were invited to the feast. The after-dinner speech of Mr. Webster was well received and heartily applauded, and was replied to quite felicitously by two or three of Carrollton's prominent speakers.
